About the Environment with Free Film Screening

PALM DESERT, Calif. - (November 4, 2008) The Palm Desert Campus of Cal State San Bernardino will host a free film screening on Sunday, November 9th, at 2:00 p.m., in their Indian Wells Theater, located at 37-500 Cook Street in Palm Desert.

The film is Rated PG and is produced and narrated by Leonardo DiCaprio and explores the perilous state of our planet, and the means by which we can change our course. Contributing to this crucial film are noted politicians, scientists and other ambassadors for the importance of a universal ecological consciousness.

The film describes the last moment when change is possible. It explores how humanity has arrived at this moment; how we live, how we impact the earth's ecosystems, and what we can do to change our course. The film features dialogues with experts from all over the world, including former Soviet Prime Minister Mikhail Gorbachev, renowned scientist Stephen Hawking, former head of the CIA, R. James Woolsey and sustainable design experts William McDonough and Bruce Mau in addition to over 50 leading scientists, thinkers and leaders who present the facts and discuss the most important issues that face our planet.

Advanced reservations are NOT required and seating is limited to the first 300 guests. Parking is free.
