Cal State student travels to Sweden to enhance his educational experience

PALM DESERT, Calif. (June 5, 2009) - Joseph Guilin, a senior majoring in Communication Studies at the Palm Desert Campus of Cal State San Bernardino will soon head to Sweden as part of the CSU International Studies program. He will attend Uppsala University, just north of Stockholm, for the nine month program.

“I’m extremely excited about this trip,” says Guilin. Not only will I be able to see more of the world, but I will also experience a new culture and learn under a new school of thought, which will make my learning more robust. I will also get a different scope of the world.”

Besides being a full-time student, Guilin is also a freelance photographer. Some of his clients include the City of Indian Wells, The Desert Sun and Eisenhower Medical Center. Before transferring to Cal State, Guilin graduated from College of the Desert and the Brooks Institute of Photography in Santa Monica.

He has also traveled to the Philippines in past, where he organized, helped produce and participated in humanitarian/missionary work.
