CAL STATE SAN BERNARDINO'S COLLEGE OF EXTENDED
LEARNING OFFERS SAT TEST PREP COURSE FOR HIGH SCHOOL
JUNIORS AND SENIORS

PALM DESERT, Calif. (August 13, 2009) – Cal State San Bernardino's College of Extended Learning will offer a special preparation course for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) on September 19, 2009 and September 26, 2009. The course is specifically geared for High School Juniors and Seniors planning on taking the SAT test offered on October, 10, 2009 or beyond. All question types on the test will be covered and a number of short-form tests will be given to provide practice in actual testing conditions.

"We have noticed a recent increase in the demand for this type of test prep course," explains Steve McAdams, Program Administrator at Cal State's Palm Desert Campus. "My guess is that students are more concerned in today's competitive environment about getting accepted to college."

The two-session course is held at the CSUSB Palm Desert Campus, located at 37-500 Cook Street, on consecutive Saturdays and the cost is $145.

More information and course catalogs are available by calling the College of Extended Learning at (760) 341-2883, ext. 14428, emailing mcadamss@csusb.edu or visiting <http://cel.csusb.edu>.
