Prospective students invited to Open House event at CSUSB Palm Desert Campus on Oct. 29

PALM DESERT, Calif. – Cal State San Bernardino’s Palm Desert Campus invites prospective undergraduate students and others interested in learning about the undergraduate admissions process to an Open House in its Oliphant Auditorium, Saturday, Oct. 29, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Current high school seniors and college students wishing to transfer to Cal State San Bernardino’s Palm Desert Campus are highly encouraged to attend this event.

Attendees will have the opportunity to take a campus tour and learn about the admission process, financial aid, curriculum and other topics related to campus life.

Faculty, staff and students representing various academic programs, departments and organizations will be available to answer questions about specific degree programs, including criminal justice, psychology, business management, accounting, communication and other popular majors.

Admission counselors and staff will also be on hand to assist students with the registration process using CSUmentor, the online admissions program used by the entire California State University system. Students will need to bring an unofficial copy of their high school transcripts to complete the application package at the event.

The university expects a large number of attendees at the event. While registration is not required, an RSVP to 760-341-2883, ext. 78251 or pdcadmissions@csusb.edu by Oct. 24 would be appreciated.
