CSUSB Palm Desert Campus offering doctoral information session for fall 2018 prospective candidates

PALM DESERT, Calif. - A limited number of openings are available for PK-12 educators in the 2018 cohort of doctoral degree candidates in the educational leadership program at the Palm Desert Campus of California State University, San Bernardino.

The three-year doctorate program is reaching out to educators whose goal is to make a difference in the futures of students and families in the desert communities served by the Palm Desert Campus.

This dynamic program provides preparation for educational leaders for PK-12 schools, community colleges and related areas within education, preparing administrative leaders to address the most pressing challenges facing educational institutions/communities in the 21st century.

“We are accepting application materials for entry in fall 2018. The earlier we receive your application the better because the applicant pool may be filled prior to the third-round deadline,” said Doris Wilson, associate dean at PDC.

An information session will take place on Tuesday, July 31, at 4 p.m. in the Mary Stuart Rogers Gateway Building, Room 205.
